Brush On Tattoo Ink

In order to achieve maximum duration of Brush-On tattoos, follow these simple steps:

1. Clean the area of the skin with rubbing alcohol.
2. If using stencils, lightly attach to the skin. Brush-On will ONLY work with self-adhesive stencils
3. Stir or Shake Vigorously [30 – 60 seconds or more] to make sure all pigment is thoroughly dispersed. Paint on with an artist brush (or lightly dab using a makeup sponge if using stencils), in layers, until desired coverage is reached. To improve flow, dip brush in extender solution before dipping in ink.
4. Apply cornstarch or baby powder at the end to achieve maximum durability. Dust off excess.
5. Carefully remove stencil if necessary.
6. Clean up ink with Denatured Alcohol. (The ink is waterproof!) Available at Lowes or Home Depot in the paint section.
7. Do not let the ink come in contact with any water!! It will turn your ink into a goeey mess. Even a single drop can ruin your ink.

Remember that tattoo placement is critical to the duration. A tattoo that is applied to the lower back at the pants line will rub off sooner than if it is placed just above the pants line. A tattoo placed on an adult will last longer than on a child due to the rapid exfoliation of children.

Glitter

Use any hobby store glitter to set ink as a top coat to achieve a sparkling finish. Apply to selected areas only for effect or apply to entire tattoo for an all over glimmer.

Apply with a small blush brush. Tap off excess before applying.

Tattoo Extender, available on our website, can be used to greatly extend the life of a tattoo when used correctly. To achieve maximum benefit from our Tattoo Extender solution, apply the solution with a Q-Tip over the tattoo area at least once per day. Only apply the extender solution over the inked area taking care to avoid the unpainted skin. After applying the extender solution, lightly dust the area with baby powder to set the solution.

When applying the extender solution, make sure you dab it on over the ink. Don't rub it. The extender solution will dissolve the ink when it is wet.

Think of the extender solution as a clear coat for your airbrush tattoo. When properly applied, the clear coat will wear off leaving the ink to look good for another day. This product is an excellent way for your clients to extend the life of their tattoo. When applied properly, our ink will achieve a long lasting tattoo on its own, but extender will help to make the tattoo last longer than normal when used daily.

We don't recommend extending a tattoo more than a few weeks. Doing so could cause serious skin irritations.

Our ink, paints and extender were developed in our lab from the ground up and are unlike any other temporary tattoo ink in America. Therefore, our formulation is a closely held secret and is for professional use only. Rest assured that we only use ingredients that are FDA approved for use on the skin. If you require an MSDS, please call our office.

Please let us know if you have any questions. Thank you and good luck.

TATTOO INFO

Temporary Tattoo Care:

Avoid applying the tattoo in areas that will be constantly rubbed by tight clothing unless you only want to have it for a few days. Don't scrub the tattoo when bathing. When showering, allow water to run over area without rubbing. Avoid sunscreen, oils, lotions, hot tubs, and extending swimming. Apply a dusting of baby powder to the tattoo after swimming or after a shower. For added durability lightly dab tattoo with clear coat extender solution using a Q-Tip twice daily and powder.

How long will the tattoo last:

With proper care, it should last about 2 weeks. There are numerous factors that can affect the durability of the tattoo. Placement of the selected stencil is very important. When a tattoo is placed where tight clothing routinely rubs the area, the permanence will be reduced. Oily skin also has a significant effect on the ability of the ink to adhere to the skin. A tattoo applied to a hairy part of the body won't last as long. Tattoo ink durability will vary from person to person. There are reasons to want a temporary tattoo to last as long as possible and there are also reasons to want it to last only a couple of days. When applied properly, clear coat extender spray will significantly increase the time a tattoo will stay on the skin.

Removing Temporary Tattoos:

The best way to remove a temporary tattoo is by letting nature take its course. The body will eventually repel anything on the surface of the skin that doesn't belong. Eventually, as the tattoo begins to naturally fade, crack, or chip you may want to remove it completely. The tattoo can be removed by various solvents such as alcohol, fingernail polish remover, hair spray, body oils or other similar items. Follow all label instructions when using any of these products.

How the temporary tattoo works:

The tattoo ink is a mixture of very sticky ingredients that are individually approved for use on the skin and are used throughout the cosmetic industry. When combined together and applied to the skin, they create a long lasting temporary tattoo. The ingredients are blended with alcohol to be thin enough to spray through an airbrush. When the alcohol evaporates, the ingredients are dry and adhere only to the surface layer of the skin. Nothing is absorbed into the skin. The ingredients are not water soluble. That is why the tattoo stays on, even in the shower.
